I would appreciate your assistance in arranging a briefing by [REDACTED], Deputy Chief of the USSR Division, for the students participating in our American Studies Program. The thirty students in our program, which is sponsored by a federation of thirty-nine liberal arts colleges spread across the United States, will spend the month of October studying the nature of U. S. relationships with the principal powers in the Far East. In my telephone conversation today with [REDACTED], he expressed a willingness to speak with these students on Friday, October 13, 1978, beginning at 2:30 p.m. We have asked him to brief us on the Soviet view of the Sino-Soviet relationship and of U. S. presence in the Far East.
